The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

APPEARANCE of specially trained American troops under colorful Brigadier General Frank Merrill, alongside our Chinese colleagues on the battle-field in the devil-haunted, fever-ridden jungles of Burma, gives us an even more intimate interest in the great offensive which is boiling up against Japan from the Allied base in India.

Also it's a reminder that another report on the famine and the political crisis in India is due in this column, since that country is Uncle Sam's main base for Southeast Asia. My big thin pipe-line brings both good news and some that's not so pleasant.

First off, the terrible famine conditions have been vastly relieved. Having said this, we find a difference of opinion as to the exact extent of the relief. One Indian source says that despite great improvement people still are dying from hunger. A British official quarter tells me there's now food so that all may eat, although deaths continue from famine diseases and from malnutrition contracted during the foodless days.

Anyway, it's agreed that things are immeasurably better. The great province of Bengal, just across the Bay of Bengal from Burma, has been brought back from a veritable valley of death. There an uncounted number perished, the number being estimated by many observers at hundreds of thousands. Bumper crops and imported food have halted the plague of hunger.

That's mighty important, not only for the humanitarian viewpoint but for military reasons. Big American and British headquarters are in Bengal—not a healthful atmosphere, in view of the famine diseases which swept the province.

The central government took over control of all distribution of food in the great city of Calcutta where the death rate was appalling. People who fled from their foodless countryside to the metropolis were moved back by the military, an operation that gave rise to a curious situation. Many of these primitive natives at first were panic-stricken when the army lorries appeared to carry them away. They thought they were going to be slaughtered.

THE POLITICAL crisis between the British government and the Indian nationalists—outgrowth of the home-rule quarrel—appears to be deadlocked. The question of granting dominion status to India has been shelved for the duration of the war—and he would be a daring prophet who predicted that the shelving wasn't indefinite.

Heckathorn Succeeds Kulas As Mullins Vice President

Harry M. Heckathorn has been elected vice president in charge of production of Mullins Manufacturing corporation's Salem and Warren plants, it was announced today by President George E. Whitlock.

The appointment was made following the resignation of Howard F. Kulas, vice president in charge of operations at Salem, who is leaving because of ill health. The changes are effective April 15.

Heckathorn has been vice-president in charge of operations of the Youngstown Pressed Steel division plant in Warren since 1938 and will now be responsible for the operation of the three Salem plants as well.

30 Years Experience

Heckathorn has had 30 years experience in the stamping industry. At the age of 19 he was salesman, buyer and secretary in charge of production for the Best Stove and Stamping Co. in Detroit. From 1922 to 1925 he was with the Murray Body Corp., Detroit, first as an efficiency expert and then in charge of the press room.

He was superintendent of the automobile stamping press room of the Dodge Brothers Co. in Detroit from 1925 until 1929 when he went to the City Auto Stamping Co., Toledo, as plant superintendent in charge of all production.

He was brought to Mullins' Warren plant in 1937 by Whitlock, with whom he had been associated for many years.

Heckathorn reorganized the production facilities of the Warren plant which was then producing pressed metal kitchen equipment.

REDS ROLL ON THROUGH MUD

Soviet Troops Seize Firm Hold On Vital Odessa-Warsaw Railway

(By Associated Press) MOSCOW, March 8.—Russia's First Ukrainian army fought today against some of the worst ground conditions of the Russian-German conflict but still the Red forces rolled on, seizing a firm hold on the Odessa-Warsaw railway and moving to within 70 miles of the important industrial and rail city of Lwow.

In a mire of mud, the Russians have ploughed on, resorting to the use of long lines of sledges hitched behind tanks. Tommy-guns were piled into the sledges and tanks, which cut through the muddy Ukrainian fields to reach the roads behind the enemy lines.

Field dispatches said the Germans had congregated large forces of infantry and tanks, seeking to hold their communication lines in the Ukraine.

On top of the warmest winter in many years, a sudden spring thaw has turned the Ukraine into thousands of square miles of very heavy, sticky mud.

Despite the heavy going, Russian spearheads yesterday captured the town of Igrovitsa, nine miles northwest of Tarnopol and only four miles from the Warsaw railway, a Russian communique announced. Other forces operating west of Tarnopol actually severed the line in two places 20 miles south of Kochnovka, 20 miles south of Volchik and Zelentay, 15 miles west of Proskurov.

Yesterday's advance liberated 200 more localities, Moscow announced. The Germans' strong infantry and tank forces were hurled back, leaving more than 1,000 dead on the battlefield, the Russians said. Numerous pieces of war equipment, including 60 tanks, were destroyed or captured and many prisoners taken, the Soviet bulletin added.

Steuenville Marine Killed; 2 Men Wounded

The War department today listed a Steuenville man killed and two district men among Ohio soldiers wounded in action in the Mediterranean.

Corp. Edward A. Tuske of the U. S. Marine Corps, son of Herbert Tuske of Wilson ave., Steuenville, was reported killed in action.

Wounded are:

Pvt. John H. Calabria, son of Mrs. Rose Calabria of W. Market st., Steuenville.

Pvt. Charles J. Reeder, son of Mrs. Lena Reeder of Grove alley, East Liverpool.

Wellsville Man Missing

COUNCIL GETS FUND REQUEST

Firemen's Pension Board Makes Claim for Portion of City Appropriation

The firemen's pension board, through its secretary, Chief Vincent L. Malloy, last night appealed to city council for what it termed its rightful share of city funds when the new municipal appropriation is prepared.

The measure is due for presentation soon since the city's temporary three-month appropriation expires April 1.

Finance Committee Chairman Harry Vincent indicated, however, that the city may experience difficulty in meeting the next payroll since a tax advance from the county has not come through as anticipated.

Auditor Karl Webster disclosed today that he finally had received the October personal tax settlement from the county. "This will probably see us through," he said.

Malloy explained last night that since 1939 the firemen's pension fund has received no contributions from the city, although by rights it was entitled to an amount not to exceed three-tenths of a mill of the city tax rate. This is the amount the police pension fund is receiving.

Appropriations to the firemen's pension fund were stopped in 1939 after a state official ruled that diversions into this fund were illegal because of a large balance on hand, the chief and Solicitor Henry L. Reese recalled.

Malloy pointed out that "although the balance seems sufficient at the present time, we expect to have to drain on the fund sooner or later."

Quota Club Sells $46,000 In Bonds

A total of $46,000 in War bonds and stamps was reported sold by Quotarians when they operated a booth at the State theater during the Fourth War Loan drive, it was reported by Mrs. Elizabeth Baker at a meeting of the club last evening at the Memorial building.

The president, Mrs. George McKee, presided at the business session, at which time it was decided to donate $50 to the Red Cross and plans were discussed for the program to be presented for Pan-American day April 14.

A report also was given on a recent Quota party given by the Alliance club and attended by Miss Nora Greenwalt, Miss Tamara Thumms, Miss Rae Heckert, Mrs. Laura Conrad, Miss Elsie Thomas, Mrs. Helen Brumbaugh and Mrs. George McKee. Main speaker at the meeting was Miss Bertha Luck, psychology instructor of the board of education in Cleveland, who discussed juvenile delinquency.

The program last evening included a talk on "The Story of Our Flag" by Mrs. F. P. Sonnedecker.

The dinner was in charge of Mrs. Goldie Schwartz and Miss Agnes Wilson and was served at a table decorated with pots of ivy and green and white appointments.

HULL'S OFFICE MAPS ALLIED CONFERENCES

At Least 10 International Post-War Meetings Scheduled To Be Held

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 7.—Diplomatic machinery to lay foundations for the post-war world has begun rolling, with at least 10 international conferences now on the State department calendar or in preparation.

Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius announced yesterday Great Britain and the United States would discuss petroleum questions in Washington soon. The projected American pipeline from the Persian gulf to the Mediterranean is expected to loom large in the talks.

Next on the schedule probably will be the United Nations monetary conference, under Treasury department sponsorship, for which Finehurst, N. C., has been mentioned as a likely site.

Treasury representatives already have held preliminary talks with the British, Russians, Canadians and several others on the possibilities of establishing an international currency unit and stabilizing world money. "Unitas" and "Bancor" have been proposed as names for the world unit.

Labor Parley Set

Definite plans for the International Labor office meeting in Philadelphia on April 20 were announced today. The ILO was set up as an adjunct to the League of Nations and moved its headquarters to Montreal when the war broke out. President Roosevelt now faces the quandary of appointing a labor member for the United States delegation who can represent both the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The United Nations food and agriculture interim commission has about completed its report on a food board, and when the draft has been approved by the member countries, the first meeting of the council will be held. The commission was set up by a United Nations conference at Hot Springs, Va., last summer.

Of all the conferences in the offing, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration's second meeting, due this summer, applies to most immediate post-war problems. Montreal and Mexico City have been mentioned as possible meeting places. UNRRA was set up to deal with feeding and

Presbyterians Will Burn Mortgage with Ceremonies Tonight

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church will burn the mortgage on the building dedicated in 1939 with a program in the church at 7:30 tonight.

The program will open with an organ preparation, "Finlandia," and following entrance of the elders, building committee, deacons and trustees the congregation will sing the hymn, "The Church's One Foundation."

Invocation and the Lord's prayer, and Scripture reading, "The One Hundredth Psalm," will precede a few remarks by R. S. McCulloch, chairman of the building committee. The anthem, "Onward, Hear the Trumpet's Call," will be sung by the combined Junior and Senior choirs, with W. Wentz Alsbaugh directing.

The mortgage will then be burned and a prayer offered by Rev. R. D. Walter, the pastor, to be followed by the doxology, "Old Hundred." E. S. Kerr will present a report from the Forward Movement Planning committee, then will come the annual business meeting, the benediction and an organ postlude, "The Heavens Are Telling."

Ohio Twins Recommend Calm Life for Longevity

XENIA, March 8.—William and Samuel Kyle celebrate their 95th birthday today, which makes them, they believe, the nation's oldest living twins.

Both widowers, the nonagenarians have lived together since 1906. In their younger days, Sam operated a nursery in Iowa for 40 years and Bill was a gold prospector.

Ohio's Prison Population Is Lowest In Many Years

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, March 8.—Ohio's prisons, their populations smallest in years, have gone on a two-shift work day to fulfill their war production contracts, Welfare Director Herbert R. Mooney reported today.

The number in inmates in the four prisons for adults decreased from 8,753 on Jan. 1, 1941, to 7,449 the first of this year and Mooney and Warden Frank D. Henderson of Ohio penitentiary attributed the drop principally to absorption of men by the armed forces and also to better employment opportunities.

Said Henderson: "A certain percentage of the population always gravitates toward prison. During depressions this percentage increases. But advanced penal methods also are cutting down the percentage—'repeaters' are getting fewer."

The dwindling supply of men is hurting the London prison farm's war work, Supt. William F. Amrine said, but so far food production there has not been affected seriously.

World war II has not affected the number of inmates at the state reformatory for women, but it has changed the type of prisoner, Mooney said.

"The women being sent to Marysville today are not so clean," he said.

Roads Flooded In Southern Counties

COLUMBUS, March 8.—This week's heavy rainfall, generally welcomed by Ohio farmers plagued by a winter drought, closed many roads in southern counties of the state today and threatened to inundate some residential areas.

Meteorologist George W. Mindling said Circleville would have a 15-foot crest today, one foot over flood stage, as the Scioto went out of banks, and that Piketon would have 20 feet of water, five above flood stage. Chillicothe is expected to get about 15 feet where flood level is 16 feet.

Elmer Kruse, Ohio AAA and Agricultural War Board chairman, said Monday night heavy rainfall might "make" the 1944 wheat harvest. Two months ago the outlook was discouraging, he said, but added snow and rainfall since then led him to predict a better yield than 1943's sub-par crop.

WHIP JAPS ON THREE FRONTS

Sixth Army On Move In Bismarck Sea Area; Hold Los Negros

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, March 8.—The Sixth American army is whipping the Japanese on three fronts around the borders of the Bismarck sea.

The Allied headquarters communique today said the Americans have won control of Los Negros island in the Admiralty group, at the northern approach to the sea, and has buried 479 more Japanese dead.

Marines attached to the Sixth army made a quick thrust 110 miles east of Cape Gloucester, New Britain island, and landed Monday with mere rifle fire opposition on Williams peninsula, on the north coast of the island. Soldiers on the south coast advanced 24 miles eastward from Arad to Amoging. New Britain forms the south boundary of Bismarck sea.

On New Guinea, which limits the sea to the west, 32nd division troops who landed behind Japanese lines at Yalau, 30 miles west of Saidor, have expanded their positions. The drive here is on Madang, Japanese coastal base.

Solemn-based bombers and fighters continued their hammering.

DAYLIGHT CHALLENGE

Strategists and officers of the United States air forces in Britain are asking their countrymen at home as well as the men under their command to take the next daylight challenge to German aviation on faith. The time has come to find out whether Germany's aerial defense has been weakened sufficiently to permit daylight raiding at will.

If United States heavy bombers and their fighter escorts can reach Berlin successfully day after day, holding their losses to reasonable proportions, that will be proof that the battle for aerial supremacy has been won by the allies. They have proved conclusively their ability to carry out massed raids after dark. They have proved their ability to attack nearby targets in daylight. But they have not proved yet that it is feasible to launch daylight attacks on points as far from their bases as Berlin.

The only way to find out how much Germany's fighter defense has been weakened is to put it to the test; that is the apparent significance of the daylight raids on Berlin. Our losses will be heavy at the beginning, just as they were when the United States air force opened its first operations in Europe. This is a new phase. It is potentially the beginning of a final phase.

Americans may take for their own the gratitude once expressed by Prime Minister Churchill to British aviators: "Never have so many owed so much to so few." The victory our airmen are wrestling from Germany in the air may save a million lives in the forthcoming invasion by land.

ONE THIRD AND TWO THIRDS

True to the method of making two confusions grow where only one grew before, President Roosevelt has made the Italian political situation worse with his enigmatic announcement that one third of the Italian fleet is in process of being turned over to Russia.

While the repercussions are shaking Badoglio, Victor Emmanuel and Propaganda Minister Goebbels, Americans are beginning to wonder what is going to be done with the other two thirds of the Italian fleet. The issue which has been joined—whether or not Russia is entitled to a third of the Italian fleet for keeps—is as broad as it is long.

If Russia is entitled to one third, then surely the United States and Great Britain are entitled to the other two thirds—and for keeps, too. Probably the question would have been let lie if it hadn't been stirred up by the announcement that Russia was going to get a third of the fleet for its own use, but now that it has been stirred up, something obviously must be done about it.

In short, if the naval spoils of a defeated member of the Axis are going to be divided up, the United States will expect its fair share.

PICKING UP THE PATTERN

Staff Sgt. Jeremiah O'Leary, a marine corps combat correspondent, has reported the curious fact that Japanese charged United States troops at Cape Gloucester, New Britain island, screaming, "To hell with Babe Ruth!"

The deluded little men had been told, no doubt, that this was an insult to the enemy, because Babe Ruth is undeniably a well known American. It would be as if Americans had yelled, "Off with the head of Amano!" Amano is a well known Japanese swimmer, the holder of several world records.

The punch in the incident is the absurd manner in which the residents of this country once let themselves be fooled by Japanese who picked up the pattern of America, but nothing else, except what they could turn to account in advancement of their material self-interest. They learned how to play baseball and wear American clothes. They learned our slang and imitated some of our more frivolous customs. They attended our colleges and universities, entertained the diplomatic crowd lavishly in Washington and schooled themselves to speak and write the English language.

There is no instance in history where a people worked harder to school themselves in the superficial aspects of another people—and probably no instance where the superficial aspects proved more deceiving.

For Thursday, March 9

WITH CARE and circumspect conduct along all lines of endeavor and contact this day may culminate in some personal joys or benefits. But a tendency to lax, shiftless or impetuous acts and words may becloud all favorable issues. All writings, correspondence, speech and agreements, spoken or written, are under adverse rule and might cause trouble unless cautiously and painstakingly managed. Read documents carefully and have an eye to truth and honesty. In romantic relations there may be thrills and benefit if discretion is exercised.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by a year of treachery, misrepresentation and confusion from all directions unless they place a rigid curb on word, speech and conduct generally, as a proclivity to accomplish cherished desires by tricky, easy or unprincipled actions may prove decidedly regrettable and beget definite penalties. Read all writings, documents or correspondence with exceptional caution. In personal conduct be circumspect.

Don't give way to rash impulses or high nervous tension. Be calm and prudent and there may be alarming events and experiences.

A child born on this day will have need of early training and discipline, being highstrung, impulsive and disposed to gain its ends in the easiest way. It should have the example of sound principle and integrity.

SENATE G. O. P. LOOKS AHEAD

WASHINGTON—The much-mourned death of Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon brings up another chapter in Republican politics which may have far-reaching effects within the party as well as in the coming national election.

It is an interesting chapter, too, for out of it may come a determination of just what trend the GOP will take in the upper Chamber from here on. This will be decided shortly when McNary's successor as minority leader is named.

There are three possibilities: (1) Selection of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio . . . at this writing, I think this most likely. (2) Designation of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan; (3) or the continuation in office of the present acting minority leader, Sen. Wallace H. White of Maine.

To appreciate these candidates it's necessary first to understand McNary and the technique he used in guiding the destinies of the party on the Senate floor and in the all-important committees, where most political battles are at least blueprinted.

McNary was for the most part a mild-mannered man. I have never heard him take the floor to rave and rant over any piece of legislation. In a personal sense (as well as political) he was a conservative. Some young party liberals in the Senate were impatient with him. They wanted a more vigorous prosecution of a more liberal legislative program, although there never was any question of McNary's parliamentary adroitness or his ability to hold his own against Democratic maneuvering.

It's likely that either Taft or Vandenberg would be acceptable to what the boys on the hill refer to as the party's "young Turks" in the Senate. Vandenberg was one when he was younger. And there has never been any doubt about Taft's vigor on the floor.

But Taft has been referred to as the great compromiser. This doesn't mean that he gives ground, but that his technique is to cause enough trouble to get the opposition in a dither and then slip in with a compromise that will at least make some headway for his party and his own program. Vandenberg, on the other hand, isn't inclined to compromise, once he gets his head set. Some observers think he might be a less clever manipulator on the Senate floor, although some declare he can have the job if he wants it.

There is one other point to be considered, and it's an important one. Vandenberg is an avowed MacArthur-for-President man, while Taft is Bricker's No. 1 backer. The additional prestige either would gain by elevation to floor leader in the Senate could have considerable effect on the party's convention decisions. There has been no complaint against Sen. White. New to the job and proceeding cautiously, he has worn well under the strain of several of the biggest legislative battles in the Senate in months. He is, however, more in the McNary tradition than either of the other two.

One thing wrong with the shingle is that no man likes to caress bristles on the back of the head. A man just loves to run his fingers through long hair—Emma Lovejoy Bailey, Macon, Ga., hairdresser (who wears hers longish).

If victory this time is to be converted into durable peace, we shall have to seek out and deal with some of the causes of social unrest. Our basic problems will have to be solved in terms of human obligations—Dr. Everett Case, president Colgate university

Speech Patterns of Average Child

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"IT TAKES about two years for a baby to learn to talk and from fifty to seventy-five years to keep its mouth shut." This is the latest

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

In addition to the list of immortal American epigrams, who is responsible for it? I have seen it ascribed to "Town Talk" of Denver.

Besides the wisdom in it, there is the statistical fact that speech begins on the average at about the age of two. Between the ages of two and four rapid strides are made, every month showing advance over the previous month. After four the rate of improvement slows down. By the time the child reaches the first grade his speech in major aspects is similar to that of an adult.

Speech must naturally wait on other phases of brain development. At birth the hearing center is almost completely undeveloped. It takes a loud noise to wake a baby. Sight at first is confused, hardly more than light, darkness and large confused objects are distinguished, and probably the baby sees everything upside down. Speech is useless to one who cannot distinguish the word for an object, and who doesn't even distinguish one object from another.

The baby learns that some sounds command attention—to get food when it is hungry. So it cries or mutters and food is brought. Here—"a boy's best friend is his mother"—(acknowledgements to Mr. F. P. Adams, on "Information Please"). But at about two to two and a half years, the preliminary groundwork for speech has been laid down in the nervous system. The cells and fibers of the hearing center are mature, and the baby realizes that sounds, including the speech of adults, mean something. The vision of the eyes is fixed and turned right side up and his world is full of objects for which he wants a name.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CREOMULSION
for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

Imitation is the baby's method of learning to talk. This imposes a great obligation on parents. Imitative speech certainly sticks. I suppose that even in such a dim distant future as when Mr. Roosevelt is no longer president of the United States, children from Georgia will be pronouncing "sir," "suh," and children from Massachusetts will be pronouncing the way they do (which cannot be indicated by print). The speech troubles that bother some parents all come from imitation—swearing, slurring, slang. They are not really troubles; they simply show the baby is alive—alert.

Delayed speech is probably the commonest real worry of parents. Organic defects—deafness, mental deficiency—are rare as causes. Common are environmental situations, such as:

Bilingualism—Children who are brought up in a bilingual household and try to learn two languages are, unless excessive care is exercised, backward in both.

Lack of chance to learn—The way a child talks is the third most important thing in his life, after vision and hearing. Parents should take the utmost pains to speak slowly, distinctly and simply.

Lack of motivation—Older people understand what little the child says, so he has no reason to enlarge his speech. When thrown with children its own age, this is changed.

THE RED CARNATION by BURTON STEVENSON

CHAPTER ONE

It was a little after midnight when Anthony Bigelow, columnist on the New York Record, stepped from a taxi in front of Max's place. The dogman saluted respectfully as he swung the cab door shut.

"Good evening, Mr. Bigelow," he said.

"Good evening, Tim. Cold, isn't it?"

"Mighty cold for April, sir. Must be near freezing."

"All quiet tonight?"

"All quiet, sir. A big crowd, well-behaved."

Bigelow nodded, strode across the sidewalk to the modernistic entrance, and passed on through into the vestibule. The hat-check girl greeted him with a warm smile.

"How are you, Katie?" he asked as he slipped out of his coat. "Tim tells me that you've got a nice quiet crowd tonight."

"They're sort of low and jittery,"

"Give this to that gentleman over there," Tony said.

Katie explained. "All they can think of is that Wall Street fellow who was sentenced to Sing Sing today."

"Of course they're jittery," Bigelow agreed. "They hear the tumbrels rollin'."

"What's tumbrels?" Katie inquired.

"Busses to the guillotine! These people know that if Dick can be sent up the river, anybody can."

"Oh, they'll snap out of it," said Katie cheerfully. "Give them a few more drinks."

"Sure," Bigelow nodded, and walked on into the restaurant.

There was nothing especially distinctive about it, and yet it was one of the most popular in New York. It was par excellence the place to see everybody, that is, who had the price and who belonged or wished to belong to the inner circle of cafe society: the semi-sporty, man-about-town, broker-theatrical-movie crowd, with its mixture of shop-worn debutantes and third-generation wastrels, rapidly working their way back to the shirt sleeves of their grandfathers.

Bigelow paused at the door for a glance around, and then the head-waiter saw him, came hurrying forward to lead the way to the columnist's favorite table at a corner of the dance-floor.

"Hello, Tony darling!" called a voice, and a soft feminine hand caught his. He looked down and a pair of melting blue eyes smiling up at him. "How cruel of you to call me plump—the plump Mrs. Leslie Ballantine!"

"Hello, Lena," Tony smiled back. "It wasn't cruel—it was a compliment. I like 'em plump. So do you, don't you, Leslie?" he added to her table companion.

Leslie merely grunted without taking the trouble to look up.

"To call me that again," Lena rattled. "You will never have a chance on 'I'm going on a diet.'"

"On a diet?" and Tony glanced at the confection heavily overcoated with whipped cream which she had in front of her.

"Tonight I'm on a binge," she explained. "I start the diet tomorrow morning."

"Don't go too far," Tony warned.

der, and whose spirits required little artificial stimulation.

In fact he was something of a mystery to the habitués of Max's and the Stork and the Colony and Lindy's and all the rest of them, for he seemed to know everything about everybody, while nobody knew anything about him. It was a mystery which Bigelow cultivated. He had his own theory about how a columnist should live.

Comme en sa tour d'ivoire, . . . looking through all the roofs of the town and penetrating all its secrets—especially its bedroom secrets, in which his clientele was so eagerly interested. So he played up to his public, and frequently regarded himself with contempt.

There was a blare of brass, a rattle of skins, a clash of cymbals, and soon the dance-floor was crowded. A pale young fellow and a lovely little blonde stopped at Tony's table.

"Yes, sir. He came in about ten-thirty."

"Who is with him?"

Joe Marsilia Wins Praise of Critics For Tenor Singing

Local friends and relatives of Joseph Marsilia, Salem tenor known professionally as Robert Marshall, who have followed his career from his high school days here to his extensive medical studies in New York's Juillard school, have learned that today he is regarded as one of the leading American tenors. Critics who have followed his progress with keen interest now class him with the best in this country.

Marsilia, who has been studying the last several years in New York, in the words of a Cleveland music critic who heard the Salem singer's recent concert in Cleveland, has "extraordinary beauty of tone, beauty of phrasing, fine diction and dramatic fervor." The reviewer says "there is no better tenor in the roster of the Metropolitan opera."

A defense plant worker, now, Marsilia expected to be drafted soon. The Cleveland critics, commenting on his concert there, said "the interruption of such a fine singer as this must be counted as one of the tragedies of the war."

There are some wounds
no drugs can heal!

WHEN a man is hit in battle, he gets the best of care. No effort, no expense is spared to save our wounded boys.

But there are some wounds no drugs can heal . . . the wounds that come from loneliness, from being far from home . . . the wounds that come from worry . . . the wound of missing you until his heart breaks and he feels he can't go on.

There are no drugs for wounds like these—no drugs except a mother's touch.

And that is where the Red Cross—your Red Cross comes in.

For the Red Cross is still the Greatest Mother in the World. All over this earth —wherever our fighting men go—the Red Cross is with them. Its Clubmobiles stand at desert crossroads. Its rest homes will be found on every front from London to Calcutta. Wherever humanly possible, its packages reach the prisoners of war in far-off camps . . . get through the barbed wire straight from your hearts . . . with fine American food, cigarettes and tobacco.

When you say "Thank God for the Red Cross" remember this . . . it is your Red Cross . . . your bandages and your blood.

Yes, and your money too!

Giving to the Red Cross has always been a great proud habit of thirty million American families . . . proud that they could give . . . proud of Red Cross that made the giving worthwhile.

Of course, you have given generously before. Of course, you will give again.

But this year, when the need is greater than ever before . . . when it's your own sons we serve . . . this year dig deep and be glad. For wherever he is

and the Red Cross is YOU!

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly
On What's Going On In Capital

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The White House may seek closer harmony between leaders of the two major political parties as a step toward persuading Congress to continue the Office of Price Administration in its present form.

This report was circulated in the Capitol today as it was announced Price Administrator Bowles would meet informally with senate banking committee members Friday to discuss OPA extension plans. No legislation has been introduced as yet to extend the agency past its expiration date—June 30—but it is expected shortly.

There have been warnings from several congressional quarters, however, that the move to carry OPA along as it is now will meet strong opposition. Many members are seeking changes not the least among which is an amendment which would end the payment of food subsidies.

DEWEY

Some members of both the Democratic and Republican parties feel that despite New York Governor Dewey's failure to commit himself fully on whether he will be a candidate for the presidency, his criticism of the federal war effort may be the tip-off he would accept a bid. Dewey called the ballot a "blank piece of paper, objecting to the lack of provisions for voting on state officials.

POSTWAR EMPLOYMENT

The International Labor organization estimates that throughout the world, after the war has ended, jobs will have to be found for 130,000,000 persons dislocated by strife.

Republicans are getting out the axe for the $50,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill which contains funds for the Federal Works agency. Rep. Taber, of New York, ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, announcing he will attempt to trim about $75,000,000 from the FWA, said that even the remainder would be "too much" but added: "It will leave them little money for such things as beauty parlors to save the time of women war workers."

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.

Republicans Wrest Colorado Congress Seat Held by Dems

DENVER, March 8.—A 59-year-old Republican business man defeated a retired World War II hero for Denver's vacant congressional seat at Tuesday's special election to become this district's first G.O.P. representative since 1932.

Dean M. Gillespie, truck dealer and oil man and avowed foe of government "bureaucracy," received a margin of 2,374 votes over his Democratic opponent, Maj. Carl E. Wuerle, 30, on the basis of unofficial tabulations.

The vote, heavier than had been anticipated, was: Gillespie 41,418; Wuerle 38,440.

"I think that the results of this election prove that the people are tired of the Democratic New Deal staff, and that business men are coming awake," Gillespie said in a statement.

Wuerle, holder of the Silver star and Distinguished Flying Cross with two oak leaf clusters for action in the South Pacific, wounded and retired, conceded Gillespie's election shortly before midnight.

The youthful war veteran who was drafted by Democrats for the race to fill the congressional seat left vacant by the death of Rep. Lawrence Lewis, Democrat, admitted during the campaign that having been so long out of the country he was unfamiliar with many problems before Congress, but promised he would learn about them.

Gillespie campaigned on a slogan of "less government in business and more business in government." He advocated an orderly transition to a peacetime economy following the war, with private industry.

Fifth Army Front Remains Unchanged

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 8.—Gunfire, mortar and grenade duels raged for the second straight night in shell-torn Cassino on the main Fifth army front, headquarters announced today.

New Zealand siege guns hammered at a German held rail station about a mile south of Cassino while American troops west of Cisterna on the beachhead engaged in a fierce machinegun and mortar duel with the Nazis, but there was no change in positions.

Discussing German movements behind the lines headquarters said the Nazis "appear to be on the watch for any opening in our forward positions."

Poor weather, however, continued to hamper the ground fighting and the communiqué declared "heavy snow in the mountains and deep mud in the valleys have made all movements difficult."

U. S. Rangers Fight Nazis To Last Man

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 8.—Into the legends of lost battalions were written today the heroic but hopeless fight of two battalions of United States Fifth army rangers who spearheaded an attack out of the Anzio beachhead on Cisterna Di Littoria early on the morning of last Jan. 30.

Trapped when they reached the village on the Apennian way at the base of the Colli Laziali hills, none but a handful ever came back from the attack. The Germans announced at the time that about 100 were killed and the remainder, some 950, were taken prisoner.

The Rangers gave up only after they had fired their last round of ammunition and thrown their last grenade against vastly superior German forces they encountered after they had infiltrated four miles through enemy lines in a stirring night and day action.

"There will be a sequel to it," vowed a few stragglers who came back to tell their story.

Obituary Survivor

Corp. Ben W. Mosier of Ash, O., one of the few who returned, told a Stars and Stripes correspondent that during their night infiltration through German lines they were close enough to German batteries at times to hear the crews giving orders in German. "When it got light," Mosier said, "we saw one big building ahead and trees all around it. Behind us there was one tank and when we saw it we cheered. We thought it was supporting us. We couldn't see it very well—and then it opened up on us and we knew what it was."

"It kept moving across a field toward us, firing 20-millimeter shells pointblank. We scattered and hit the dirt."

and from 1937 to 1941, under his direction, the unit-production of the plant was increased tremendously and when the war started the plant changed to war work with a speed and ease that drew many favorable comments from the war and navy departments.

Kulas joined Mullins in 1938. Heckathorn's home is at 3104 Crescent dr., N. E. Warren. He is married and the couple have four children, with two sons and a son-in-law in the army.

Kulas' resignation comes after a long and varied career in the stamping industry which began with the Cleveland Gas and Electric Fixture Co. of Conneaut in 1914. Anxious to learn all phases of modern industry, Kulas successfully worked in the accounting, sales, advertising and production departments of several companies, including the Peerless Motor Car Co. and the Iwanig-Regent division of General Electric Co.

He returned to the production end when he joined the Midland Steel Products Co., Cleveland, when it was organized. After becoming vice president in charge of manufacturing and general manager, he left in 1938 to take charge of operations for Mullins at Salem.

His present plans call for an extended visit in California until he has regained his health.

Scene in the village of Litzbark when peace comes and the war criminals are tried, in Columbia's prophetic new picture, "None Shall Escape."

Germany and Poland are shown at four different stages in their respective histories in "None Shall Escape," the startling film drama showing the post-war trials of vicious war criminals, which shows at the State theater Thursday through Saturday. They are 1919, following the Versailles treaty; 1923, during the time of the Munich beer hall putsch; 1933, on the occasion of Hitler's rise to power; and September, 1939, when the Nazis invaded Poland. Dorothy Morris and Marsha Hunt are cast in the film. Spencer Tracy is cast as a dare-

A double feature, "Ghost Ship" and "Gangs, Inc.," will be at the Grand for the last time tonight. ## COUNCIL GETS

Reese, who, at council's request, indicated he would hand down an opinion in the case, asked support to the fire chief's claim. He declared that a ruling by the state attorney general in 1939 made it mandatory for a municipality to earmark three-tenths of a mill for police and firemen's pensions.

He added that Salem was probably the only city in the state not allocating money for firemen's pensions.

City councilmen recalled that the action cutting off funds for firemen's pensions was taken by the county budget commission after a state examiner returned a finding against the city for recovery of funds paid illegally to the firemen's pension fund because that fund already had a balance.

No findings in this connection were returned after other city audits, however.

Vincent declared that the city would have funds for only bare necessities until a tax collection report is received from Lisbon.

His statement followed a report by Councilman Arthur Hanna, lighting committee chairman, that the city electrician's truck was worn out and in need of replacement. About $600 has been spent on repairs since the city bought it, he said.

Pass Fire Truck Ordinance

Council passed its final ordinance for the issuance of $7,200 in bonds to pay for the new 500-gallon-capacity booster pumper which the fire department now has in use.

Chief Malloy said John Doult had offered storage space for the broken-down 20-year old American-LaFrance truck until it is sold.

Council received a letter of appreciation from the Defense Council control center staff, thanking council for the use of the city hall council chambers for air raid control center headquarters for the past two years.

The center has been partially dismantled and the councilmen met there last night for the first time since an enemy air attack on the United States was feared possible. Meetings, in the meantime, have been held in the mayor's office.

Lemans, site of a Renault engine plant and a section of the Gnome-Rhone airplane engine works, is in the dead center of the eastern half of France, and is the most convenient funnel for routing big rail shipments between the northern French coast and the western and southwestern stretches.

Receives Double Blow

France was brought under double attack yesterday, with Lightning-escorted Flying Fortresses from the U. S. 15th air force striking at Toulon naval base in the south, and medium bombers from Britain raiding northern France. Liberators attacked Nazi airfields and railway installations near Rome, and Marauders and Mitchells bombarded freight yards in Rome in the sixth Allied raid on that capital.

Lemans is a main line rail junction between Paris and the great ports of Brest and Nantes. Canadian bombers participating in the assault reported only light flak defenses.

It was the second straight night that the RAF had lost no raiders.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

anti-government disturbances are bloodshed of late 1942. I'm informed that there they will stay until they give guarantees there will be no further trouble if they are released.

Many other natives, of course, are locked up for anti-government activities. These run into the thousands, at least 4,000 of them having been involved in the 1942 troubles.

A government source assures me that things are well in hand and that there's no fear of further disturbances. That sounds like a correct estimate of the position.

The Nationalist answer is that the situation is breeding bitterness which may react against the western world in post-war days. As I have reported previously, the Indian crusaders for independence have hooked their chariot to the Atlantic Charter and the four freedoms, and are asking whether these declarations apply to Orientals as well as to the west.
